EXECRATION

Norway's Execration has been around for 10 years now. The time has been well spent with several releases leading up to this year's masterpiece "Morbid Dimensions". The album has received huge attention in the media and got 6 of 6 points in Scream Magazine, Eternal Terror and Norsk Metal. Execration's experimental death metal is something unique within the genre where they incorporate a wide set of different styles into their sound. The result is hard hitting, brutal and original death metal from the new kings of Norwegian death metal! See them live at Inferno Metal Festival 2015!

Talking to Execration's drummer Cato Syversrud it seems like we got a lot to look forward to:

Execration have played at Inferno a couple of times before. How was it then and how does it feel to be back?

- Inferno is the longest running and biggest Norwegian metal festival, with dedicated metalheads coming from all around the world, so it is a great opportunity to reach a wider audience. We've enjoyed it every time, both playing and hanging out. Last time we played a packed club scene, and it is still a highlight in terms of the intense atmosphere that was conjured up that night. This year Rockefeller will take a serious pounding too.

Execration have a brand new album that have received great reviews from all over the press. Except from songs from "Morbid Dimensions", what else can we expect at Inferno Metal Festival?

- We have put together a cosmic journey through old and new material, also featuring songs that have rarely been played live before. In addition to the material we are also working on putting together a complete experience for the Inferno crowd.

Why the hell should the Inferno audience come and see Execration when there are so many other great bands to pick from in the line-up?

You will be dragged into a labyrinthian journey through the darkest pits of existence! Behold the Cosmic Masoleum!
